Once upon a time, we lived alongside Legends. Creatures of myth. Centaurs, fauns, gorgons, kelpies, gnomes, and more. They were spectacular. Majestic. Powerful. Peaceful. Pure. In comparison, we were ugly. Weak. Warmongering. Rotten. Is it any wonder we could not live alongside them any longer? After driving these Legends to the fringes of society, an uglier form of mythos takes shape in the form of rumors of live snuff shows for dark web high rollers. When a mysterious young woman, Nessa, enlists the help of a hacker to take a tour of the grisliest corners of the Dark Web, she sets in motion a war between those who peddle to mankind's darkest fantasies and a world that transcends imagination. Trojan is fantasy thriller full of wonder

10 and horror in equal measure.

Q: Joining you on Nightwalkers are Joe Bocardo (Inks), Colin Johnson (Colors), and Justin Birch (Letters). What makes this team right for Nightwalkers, and how do they influence the final product beyond their respective roles?

A: A story like Nightwalkers needs a distinct visual style, something that sets it apart, something that gives it an almost dream-like... or, more appropriately, a nightmare-like quality. This team embraces that and runs with it. There's a real ghost story quality to this book, from the inks to the color to the way it is lettered. You can feel the isolation and loneliness in the art. And you can see the horror in the eyes and expressions of the lead characters. I feel very lucky to work with this team.
